

Reco Crayton, MBA

Vice President of Commercial Lending, Commonwealth National Bank

Reco Crayton, MBA, is the Vice President of Commercial Lending at Commonwealth National Bank, where he is leading efforts to expand equitable access to capital for small businesses, healthcare professionals, and community-based enterprises across the Southeast.

A visionary in relationship banking, Reco has been instrumental in developing Commonwealth Healthcare Finance—a specialized initiative designed to support medical, dental, and veterinary practices through tailored loan programs, education, and hands-on advisory support.

With a career rooted in financial empowerment, Reco is passionate about helping entrepreneurs and professionals build sustainable businesses that create jobs and generational wealth. His work reflects Commonwealth's mission to strengthen local economies through fair, inclusive, and community-centered lending.

A proud advocate for financial literacy and small business growth, Reco frequently collaborates with local chambers, business associations, and educational institutions to bridge the gap between opportunity and access. He believes deeply that “banking is more than transactions—it’s about relationships that build communities.”